

Let's get #architecture trending

Sydney may be the first global city to wake up to World Architecture Day on 6 October 2014, but we're not the only ones on this planet.

The International Union of Architects was thinking the same in 2005 when they decided on a day intended to remind us all of our collective responsibility for the future of the human habitat.

So to celebrate World Architecture Day, we're asking; can we get architecture trending around the world? We have some ideas on how to do this.

Over the past few weeks we've asked some prominent Sydneysiders to draw or write what architecture means to them – what it is, could be or should be. On 6 October 2014, we'll reveal this great work on Twitter, Facebook and Instagram.

But we need your help. Upload your own sketch, thought bubble, quote or wit on Twitter, Facebook or Instagram using the hashtag #WAD14 #SAF14.

It can be your own personal site, or your company's.

You might draw something that shows architecture can have a social purpose, or be the defining identity of a place. You might sketch a cartoon of your favourite icon, or your favourite corner of your house. You might scan a doodle from your sketch book or lecture notes.

Architecture is visual. So let's use a visual platform like social media to get architecture trending this World Architecture Day, 6 October 2014.
